

Staffing agency finds niche as life science specialist

From its humble beginnings in 2005, Business Excellence Professional Consulting was created to provide engineering and consultant services to Fortune 500 companies within the life science industry. “Our goal has always been to provide top end engineers to help organizations within this industry with validations, manufacturing process improvements, quality assurance, and supplier audits using the latest Six Sigma and lean methodologies,” said Oscar Casillas, president and founder.

In 2007, BEPC began realizing the huge opportunity that lay before it, and officially incorporated in the state of Texas. In addition, it sought to incorporate three simple goals: growth, financial vitality and people development. These goals became part of its everyday culture and in late 2010, BEPC incorporated in Mexico. In 2011, it expanded its services to include IT consulting and staffing services for Fortune 100 companies. By the end of 2011, BEPC grew more than 45 percent in sales. That growth continued in 2012 as BEPC grew more than 89 percent to break the 100-employee mark.

The minority- and HUB-certified company’s offerings within engineering and operations include process, product, equipment, and software validations, process and product transfers, as well as commissioning and qualification of Clean Room facilities. BEPC also offers packaging engineering, labeling, technical writing and graphic design, process automation, enterprise resource planning and scheduling as well as project management. Within the quality space, BEPC offers supplier qualification and auditing, CAPA investigations and documentation, quality systems validations and change control.

As a comprehensive staffing organization, BEPC offers professionals to fill clerical and administrative, professional, technical, information technology and industrial needs. With competitive pricing, the company offers direct placements as contract to hire, as well as employee conversion on a declining scale.

Today, BEPC not only conducts business in more than 16 states, but it also services some of the top global companies including Johnson & Johnson, Abbott Vascular, Honeywell, Genentech, Kinetic Concepts Inc. and many more Fortune 500 companies. “Overall, our commitment is to be a valuable partner in each of our client’s operations by providing the best service at an exceptional value on a national and international level,” Casillas said.

BEPC Inc. has received numerous awards and recognition from the community including the most prestigious award presented this year to Casillas: The 2013 Small Business Person of the Year presented by the SBA district office in San Antonio, Texas. ☞

Camille and Oscar Casillas

(325) 212-3857
www.bepcinc.com

“Overall, our commitment is to be a valuable partner in each of our client’s operations by providing the best service at an exceptional value on a national and international level.”

— Oscar Casillas